The Crisis Coming

The Richmond Whig says

"A time that will really test the people of the Confederate States seems near at hand It is necessary now to contemplate the possibility of being, in the military sense of the word, "overrun"—of having our system of labor, to a great extent broken up—and supplies both for people and troops reduced to the scantiest measure"

So it would seem that the rebels begin to see the handwriting on the wall, and to recognize the meaning of its fiery characters They begin to feel the weight of the heavy hand of the Government and to confess that the day of actual and of perilous trial and suffering is close upon them Such acknowledgments differ amazingly from the bold and boasting threats which at the beginning of the war filled every Southern mouth, and flamed out in every rebel paper Then, their soil was so sacred and so thoroughly protected by its chivalric sons, that no foot of the Yankee invader would ever dare profane it, now, it is likely to be "overrun" by Northern abolitionists Then, they had such an admirable and contented class of laborers and servants, that crops would be raised for the army, though every white man went to the battle field—now, their beautiful system of labor, by the impertinent interference of the Government, which has struck the shackles from every slave, is almost "broken up" Then there were to be abundant supplies to enable the hosts of traitors in arms to resist the power of the nation for a hundred years, if need be, but now sad to confess, "both the people and the army are reduced to the scantiest measure" of food and starvation, gaunt, horrid and unrelenting, stares them in their pale and quivering faces How awful the contrast between their expectations and the present realities of their position! And yet they do not know how much more abject and miserable their situation is likely to, and must become, if they presume still longer to resist the strength of the Union, and to defy its majesty What is now fearful anticipation, will shortly become a fixed and terrible fact, and blasting and destruction will sweep their names from the earth, unless they wisely submit to the just control and allegiance of the Government For all this, they may thank themselves

Letter from General Alvord concerning Enlistments.

We are glad to be permitted to publish the following communication, addressed to the Governor, by the patriotic and vigilant commander of this Military District It contains sound and practical suggestions, which will, we trust, meet with a cordial response, for no one, after reading it, can doubt the necessity of recruiting our cavalry regiment at once, so that it may be able to do effective service during the present year

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF OREGON }
FORT VANCOUVER, W T, Feb 10, 1864 }

GOVERNOR —A letter from a recruiting officer in Oregon to Col. R. F Maury, of the 1st Oregon Cavalry, says that the idea prevails that there is no necessity for more troops—indeed that to keep troops in this District is a useless expense,' &c &c Every person acquainted with the wants of the frontier understands how idle such remarks are.

But I desire to say distinctly that more troops are necessary, and that we have next spring and summer important work for the Oregon Cavalry to perform

I shall recommend to the General commanding the Department, that troops be sent to traverse thoroughly the whole region between Auburn and Canyon City and the California line I hope to put two expeditions in the field the whole season for that purpose, against the Snake Indians. One from Fort Dalles, south easterly, and one from Fort Boise, westerly and south westerly I shall also recommend a movement from Fort Klamath easterly, but as that post is not in my District, I cannot speak so definitely in reference to it

Thus you will perceive that it is hoped that the troops will be able to assist the mining population in prospecting, occupying and exploring that portion of Oregon east of the Cascade mountains, which is now a centre of great interest to the public on this coast It contains, no doubt, immensely valuable mineral deposits It is doubtless the intention of the brave and hardy miners to explore it, in any event. It is my earnest wish to give them all the assistance and protection in my power To aid in such an interesting development should be the aim and policy of the Government. Besides the ordinary wants of the Indian frontier, we shall also require troops for the fortifications now building at the mouth of the river

I am just advised from Department Headquarters that a small expedition will probably be sent from Lapwai next summer to explore the route from Lemhi (the Mormon Fort) to the mouth of Big Horn on the Yellowstone

Until the 1st March next, large bounties are given to recruits, $302 for those who enlist, and $402 to those who re-enlist. This is by recent legislation of Congress, of the 12th ultimo Thus, now is the time for adventurous spirits to join the 1st Oregon Cavalry

Except from the Snakes, no Indian troubles are now anticipated, Those who may lightly say that troops are not wanted are little aware how much the profound peace and security which now reigns on our whole Indian frontier is due to the movements of the troops, and especially of the Oregon Cavalry during the two last summers For two summers Col Maury, with the gallant and efficient regiment under his command, has taken the field upon the emigrant road. He was ordered to remain out until October He did come in prematurely only to hear of a massacre of emigrants in his rear.

In May last, six companies of troops were assembled at Fort Lapwai on the Nez Perces Reservation to attend the great Council convened to effect a new treaty with that tribe. Those troops were not so much needed for influence over that tribe although it was well to hold in salutary check the warlike minority of the Nez Perces. But the Council was attended by runners from all the surrounding tribes Most of them had (as the Palouse Yakimas, Cœur d'Alenes, Cayuses, &c.,) been once at war with us while the Nez Perces had remained friendly They were eagerly waiting the hour when the Nez Perces would strike, as if they would only saw the word many allies full of ancient grudges would cluster around them from those tribes hugely delighted at the prospect of getting the Nez Perces into a fight

The establishment of the military post Fort Lapwai in October, 1862 and this assemblage of troops at Lapwai had a most salutary effect evincing that the power of the Government was not gone as the rebel sympathizers had endeavored to instil An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and these movements may have frustrated hostile combinations.

Col Maury proceeded from Fort Lapwai through the Salmon River country to Boise and thence on the Emigrant Road In October 1862 [illegible] I knew of the first discoveries of gold near Boise. I wrote to the War Department recommending the establishment of Fort Boise In January the orders of the Secretary of War were received for the establishment of that post [illegible] It will always be an important and central point in reference to the defence of that frontier

In February, 1863 it was arranged with Captain Crawford when he started for Washington City that Colonel Maury with his command should meet him at the crossing of Snake river above Fort Hall between the 15th and 20th of August All the arrangements were made accordingly and they met at the ferry on the 17th of August [illegible] at the time [illegible] Col Maury returned on the South side of Snake river [illegible] one of the Bruneau and Malheur and reached Fort Walla Walla on the 26th of October

I am happy to say that thus the most efficient protection has been given to the incoming emigrations of 1862 and 1863 The gallant spirit of the 1st Oregon Cavalry, who have borne like good soldiers the hardships of the campaign, are entitled to my thanks for the efficient and cheerful manner in which they have discharged the duty, although they had not the good fortune to meet an enemy Well do I know that the ardent desire of many of them would be to join in the war of the East where [illegible] rejoice them to battle in the glorious cause of unity, freedom and nationality for which the armies of the Republic are now contending

I have the honor to be very respectfully your obedient servant

Confusion in Names

Many sensible people are puzzled by hearing or reading that Smith, Brown or Jones has said or done something in Congress, which he could not believe said Smith Brown or Jones would do He fails to consider that there may be more than one Smith and that men of like name are not necessarily of like politics For the benefit of a large class, we volunteer the information that

There are three Browns in the present Congress—B Gratz of Missouri, in the Senate William G of West Virginia, and James S of Wisconsin, in the House Only the last is a Copperhead

Of Chandlers there are two—Zachariah of Michigan in the Senate Lucius H of old Virginia, in the House beside John W Chandler of our city (Lucius H, by the way, has not yet been admitted, but, we presume, will be) Our Chandler is a bad egg, politically, while the one that hails from Michigan is as good as he can be

Of Clarks, this Congress rejoices in the possession of three—Daniel of New Hampshire, in the Senate, Ambrose W, and Freeman both of this State, in the House All three are sound

Of the wide spread family of Davis Garret (Border State) represents Kentucky in the Senate while Henry Winter of Maryland and Thomas T of our State, are in the House If you hear of anything said by a Davis that a loyal man should not say, you will attribute it, of course, to Garret

Of Dixons James (Senate) hails from Connecticut, while Nathan F represents Western Rhode Island Both good

Of Hales, John P, of New Hampshire is in the Senate James T of Pennsylvania, in the House Both Union

The name of Harris is unusually well represented in this Congress—Ira representing our State in the Senate while Benjamin G of Maryland and Charles M of Illinois, have seats in the House If you hear that Harris has said anything loyal and patriotic, you may safely credit it to Ira

Of Hubbards, A W from Iowa, John H from Connecticut, are both in the House, together with Calvin T Hulburd of our State If rebellion or slavery derives any comfort from anything a Hubbard or Hulburd says or does, be sure it is some one not in Congress

Of Johnsons there are Reverdy of Maryland, in the Senate, Philip of Pennsylvania and William of Ohio, in the House, Reverdy was elected as a Unionist but we don't brag on any of them

Of Kelloggs there are two—Francis W of Michigan, and Orlando of our State—both in the House, and both as good Unionists as they make anywhere

Of Lanes, there are two—Henry S of Indiana James H of Kansas—both in the Senate and both Union

Of Millers, but two appear—Samuel F (Union) of our State, William H. (Coppery) from Pennsylvania

Of Morrills, Lot M is a Senator from Maine, Justin S a representative from Vermont—both sternly Union

The name of Morris belongs to two members—Daniel (Union) of our State James R (Coppery) from Ohio Each is in the House

So Myers is the common appellation of Amos and Leonard of that ilk—both from Pennsylvania and both Union

Of O Neills, Charles (Union) is from Pennsylvania, John (Copper) from Ohio, both are in the House

Of Pomeroys, Samuel C represents Kansas in the Senate Theodore M is from our State—both thoroughly Union

There are two Randalls in the House—Samuel J of Philadelphia, and William H of Kentucky Of these, the latter is Union, but of the Border State pattern, the other is of the Copperhead persuasion Curious as it may seem, they usually vote just alike

The Smith family were scandalously overlooked in electing this Congress But one of them—Green Clay of Kentucky—was chosen Smithers of Delaware just escaped being a Smith Both are Unionists

Of Steeles there are John B from this State and William G of New Jersey—Copper fastened, both, and both in the House

The house of Rollins has two representatives—Edward H of New Hampshire (a true Unionist), and James S of Missouri, who ought to be the same, but isn't. He somehow stands aloof from parties, but his heart seems to long for the fleshpots of the compromising era

Of Washburnes, Illinois sends Elihu B, and Massachusetts William B—both strong Unionists

Of Whites, Chilton A and Joseph W (both Democrats) complete the catalogue

Of Wilsons Henry of Massachusetts is in the Senate, James F of Iowa in the House—both largely Union

Finally, we have two Woods—Fernando and Ben, both of this city If the politics of one of these are better than those of the other, we should like to know which is the good one, or how any one can be worse than either of them —N Y Tribune

In the above list, the Tribune forgets, perhaps, as of no consequence, the two Hardings Benjamin F, of Oregon in the Senate and Aaron, of Kentucky in the House The former was elected as a Union man, and so was the latter according to the Border State policy, but both of them are regarded as being almost if not quite as anxious for the revival of the Democratic party, and to save slavery, as for the safety of the Government under a Republican Administration We believe, however, that the California papers are in error in attributing the so called "conservative" resolution lately published, to the Senator It probably was the offspring of the Kentucky member, but as the position of the former has been so equivocal it is not surprising that he got the discredit of an action, which was not entirely inconsistent with his preference for Vallandigham over an Abolitionist

SIX TRIALS AND FOUND GUILTY EVERY TIME —The Butternut Democracy say that if a man is found guilty of treason towards the Government, try him—give him a hearing, and if guilty punish him in law—but give him a trial, This privilege was extended to Mr C L Vallandigham yet his friends say he had no hearing This is truly surprising Vallandigham has had the benefit of not only one hearing but of six trials and convicted every time First by a court martial second by General Burnside, third by Judge Leavitt fourth by the President, fifth, on an appeal to his friends—by the people of the State of Ohio at the ballot box, sixth by the Ohio volunteers in the army We report in every case the verdict has been against him What more do you want, gentlemen —Steubenville Herald

SCENES AT CHATTANOOGA —A young surgeon stationed at Chattanooga writes to a friend in this city, under date of December 9th as follows

I am somewhat disabled from a poisoned wound in my left hand and I can't do much in the way of work Though I have charge of a large ward of wounded [illegible] yet I can only direct things for the present and have time to read myself weary and then [illegible] for recreation

Among the [illegible] and mangled ones who were brought to me from the gallant charge at Mission Ridge was [illegible] a young fellow of twenty five—a fine full [illegible] character, and his [illegible] expression marked him as a man of cultivation and power He had a [illegible] wound [illegible] he fell [illegible] His cheek was flushed he felt strong [illegible] full of hope and when the [illegible] made to him that the chances were against him his face and that bright [illegible] and thought [illegible] something foreign to himself [illegible] he, with stern voice and heroic demand [illegible] Amputation [illegible] at the hip joint offers you one chance to live [illegible] of your life and you have a right to demand the operation if you wish without it you have [illegible] chance With determination and slightly compressed lip he replied Send for my father While quite young this youth had contracted a love against his father's will and so strong was his love that he sacrificed all for her and was betrothed and the old father, who thought his son's [illegible] should be [illegible] disinherited [illegible] and drove him from his door [illegible] of it for the son [illegible] stout heart [illegible] all his wanderings and struggles [illegible] to know he had a father But the father, yearning [illegible] repenting of his injustice, retired his son and the public declaration of which, having no practical results did but satisfy the [illegible] father and the poor girl the saddest picture of his rash folly, now an invalid and half distracted with her sad fate to his house and treats her as his own child, and [illegible] her property Finally her strength fails and the old man's care is yet more tender He [illegible] her from [illegible] chair his life is devoted to her the betrothed of his son and now the son with whom he parted in anger years ago, and has not seen nor heard from since, having won laurels for his brow in vindication of his country's rights is now dying—and says 'Come to me' He comes the scene you can imagine and the boy bore up bravely so grateful for the father's attention and kindness to his first and great love The reconciliation was perfect I never saw so grand a scene, and the same day he died, and the poor father could not bear to look upon him so heartbroken and sad he was that he had made his son's life [illegible], and he left him alone to die among strangers and a few hours later the father with the corpse of his son was en route for the old homestead there to sever the other link in that chain by the sad spectacle

The news is to day that General Grant is to be Lieutenant General and command the armies of the United States He certainly is a great man, so modest so entirely unselfish and pure in all his acts Really we think him the bright star in this great nation I am inclined to think this army will make yet another campaign this Winter though we are yet suffering from deficient transportation facilities yet it seems a desperate effort will be made to push on Atlanta would be another terrible blow to the Confederacy—'a stunner'"

PLAIN TALK —When the McDougall Resolutions were under discussion in the Sacramento Senate, Mr. Gaskill pronounced the following pointed and well deserved denunciation of Mr Pearce, Senator from Sonoma

Mr Gaskill replied to the remarks of the distinguished constitutional gentleman from Sonoma (Mr Pearce) Could it be that the country had fallen so low as to accept of such defenders? You defend the Constitution of your country! [Addressing the Senator from Sonoma.] You and your party when a half a million of bayonets are bristling on every side to guard the temple of liberty against the attack which has been made upon it, you sir who have been attempting to stab the knife at the heart of the Constitution! You, sir, with the tippling, rollicking Democratic misrepresentatives of the sentiment of California, whom you are defending! You instruct men in regard to their duty toward the Constitution and the country! Sir the sentiments which you have uttered here to-day and which are uttered by your party in the State of California are such that you may be thankful to be permitted to hold a seat on the floor of this Senate chamber In times like this, when the very life-blood of the country was freely flowing in livid streams, such men as you are permitted to hold place in our Government! You should be thankful, sir, that the indignation of a loyal people has not hurled you from the position long ago Well may you defend the recreant Senator from California, when there exists no Union man so low as to do him reverence

Mr Kutz called the speaker to order In the course of his argument he said the gentleman was plainly out of order in addressing a member personally It was a rule of the Senate that he should address the Chair

The President pro tem said it was the opinion of the Chair that the point of order was well taken.

Mr Pearce hoped the Senate would indulge him

Mr Gaskill said his only apology for being personal was that he could not sit calmly by and allow such gentlemen as these to dictate to him his duty in reference to the Constitution of the country Mr McDougall has voted against a proposition to exclude the damning curse of slavery from the Territories, he asked if that was right? In numerous other acts he had opposed the financial measures of the Government and it would make no difference with the Senator from Sonoma whether none or all of these specifications were charged He (Mr. Pearce) was here as the defender of California's recreant Senator, and he did not envy that Senator his defenders on this floor

HALE AND THE GOSSIPERS —The New York Herald having stated that certain Senators had sought to oust John P Hale from the Chairmanship of the Committee on Naval Affairs, and that it was only upon assurances that he would throw no obstacles in the way of the Navy Department that he was retained in the position which he has held so many years and with such signal ability, the Senator addressed a note to that journal on the 15th of December, stating that he was chosen Chairman of the Naval Committee because a majority of Senators saw fit so to choose, without the slightest intimation on his part, direct or indirect, expressed or implied, to any human being, as to what his course in any particular would be He added this characteristic paragraph

"I was opposed to an improper use of the public money by Democrats when they were in power and am no less opposed to the same thing now that my political friends are in power I have been too long in public life to desire to hold on to it a day longer than I can without making common cause with those who would prey upon the public treasury or their confederates"

While the formation of the Committee of the Senate was an open question, Hale, who is now and has been Chairman of the Naval Committee, waited upon Senator Morgan and expressed the opinion that the great State of New York should have the honor of the chairmanship of one of the Committees and offered to relinquish his own place in favor of Morgan The offer was declined, and the Senate refused to displace Hale

THE CONDEMNED —The condemned prisoners have weakened considerably since their sentence Much of their time is spent in constant perusal of the Bible although they still declare their innocence of the murder of the lamented Magruder and party If they had spent their leisure heretofore in studying that sacred volume, and followed its precepts they would have escaped the ignominious fate that await them and their relatives and friends (if such fiends can have any friends) would not have to blush for their degraded exit —Golden Age

NEWS FROM CHARLESTON

NEW YORK, Feb 7 —A Washington special dispatch says So far as can be ascertained from official [illegible] reports [illegible] much importance is attached to the report of fighting in East Tennessee though the enemy has been heavily reinforced and are determined on assuming the offensive immediately

CHICAGO, Feb 6 —A Knoxville dispatch dated January [illegible] says Two divisions of the enemy's cavalry under Gen Martin attacked our cavalry at [illegible] Springs on the morning of the 21st [illegible] [illegible] Our forces fell back but afterwards charged and drove them one mile capturing [illegible] prisoners among whom are several officers They have about 60 killed and wounded. Our loss was about 100

CHICAGO, Feb 7 —A Nashville dispatch, dated Jan 23 says Longstreet has been heavily reinforced from North Carolina. Our communications [illegible] at Cumberland Gap have been cut [illegible] but he thinks he can hold the place for months to come

WASHINGTON Feb 6 —Private information has been received from Chattanooga that several days ago there was but a small rebel force at Dalton—the main body of the rebel army having retreated to Rome (Ga) under Johnston The retreat is accounted for on the ground that the enemy was forced to go to Rome in order to gain convenient access to their supplies, and to prevent desertion Between eight and nine thousand rebels have come into our lines since the battle of Missionary Ridge

There is not much alarm at Chattanooga about the safety of our troops at Knoxville

WASHINGTON, Feb 6 —The War Department received authentic intelligence to-day from Knoxville. The latest advices represent our forces there to be in a critical position

LOUISVILLE, Feb 7 —The reporter of the associated press just arrived here He reports on the highest military authority in Nashville that all the skirmishes heretofore reported, were merely foraging fights between our own and the rebel pickets Also that Gen Park was at Knoxville and had no communication It was sent off this side of Cumberland Gap.

WASHINGTON, Feb 7 —The Richmond Enquirer of Saturday says 20 Yankee prisoners from Newbern arrived yesterday Probably the crew of the crew of the boat Underwriter.

MOBILE Feb 6 —Our forces occupy Corinth and Jackson Nothing had been destroyed there but everything carried off Yankee Cavalry in strong force crossed the Big Black yesterday They were met by Jackson's Cavalry A lively fight took place

FORTRESS MONROE, Feb 7 —The Richmond Examiner of Feb 3d has the following

Charleston Feb 3d.—A steamer from Nassau the 28th attempted to run in about two o'clock this morning, but got ashore on Sullivan Island The enemy opened a heavy fire on the steamer at day break, and continued all day It is believed that the vessel will be a total wreck The enemy have discontinued firing on Sumter 136 shots have been fired upon the city within the last 24 hours

A Chattanooga dispatch, dated the 7th, says the Railroad is open to Cleveland and will be to Knoxville in five days

The rebel army is around Tunnel Hill and Dalton.

Second Dispatch.

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN

SEVERE FIGHTING IN VIRGINIA.

Advance on Mobile confirmed.

THREE MEN LYNCHED,

NEW YORK Feb 8th —The Herald's special dispatch dated Culpepper Court House, 7th says Kilpatrick crossed at Culpepper ford and scourged the country from Jacob's ford to the rear of Fredericksburg, finding nothing but the Cavalry pickets of Hampton's division, nearly all of whom were captured

A body of New York Cavalry went to Jacob's ford where they had learned there was a sergeant with nine men; they captured three of them,

Kilpatrick then returned having accomplished the purpose for which he went.

Gen Warren crossed the 2d corps at Morton's ford yesterday with little or no opposition

The 2d division of the same corps crossed and attempted to join the 3d in a piece of woods to the left of the ford when a party of rebels opened on them with musketry from the right of the ford where they had been concealed in another piece of woods

The night was dark, rainy and foggy, and in firing each party was disclosed by the flash of the guns of their opponents During the night firing ceased and our men were ordered to return across the river which they did without molestation

CULPEPPER, Feb 7 —The 10th division of Cavalry, which went by Barnett's ford met some of Sturgis Cavalry last evening, and skirmished with them this morning, the whole division, except those left on picket duty, being on hand Our forces advanced, and found the rebel cavalry backed by Infantry We pitched into them, and drove the whole force before us to Madison Court House The command had the field all day and then in obedience to orders fell back to headquarters having captured few prisoners

WASHINGTON, Feb 8 —It was reported at Brandy station, that Gen Caldwell with his own division and another Brigade of 22d corps, captured a rebel Col and two privates of Picket's force on the crossing of Morton's Ford, and the prisoners informed him that only two brigades of rebels were within ten miles of that point thereupon Gen Caldwell determined to storm the enemy's works Ten or twelve pieces of artillery were in position He charged three batteries and discovered that the works were swarming with the enemy, and deemed it prudent to fall back to the protection of his rifle pits. He held the ground looking 30 killed and wounded of his command during the night The crossing of the Rapidan was effected by fording the river

NEW YORK, Feb 8th —The World's Memphis letter fully confirms previous statements as to Sherman's movements toward Jackson and Montgomery A capable force is attached under Gens. Smith and Grierson A large negro force from Port Hudson under Gen Ullman are to join the expedition

The correspondent says there are boats in Tombigbee river which may be made available, and it is believed Mobile will be the real object of the movement.

SACRAMENTO, Feb 9th —The specie contract bill was debated in the Senate to-day and laid over for to morrow

In the Assembly Thompson Campbell read the following dispatch which is in answer to one sent by him to Secretary Chase

WASHINGTON Feb 8 —To Thompson Campbell I am of the opinion that the California Specie law is against the National policy, and shall be much gratified to hear that California declares herself in favor of one currency for the whole people by its repeal of the specie contract law

S P CHASE Secretary

The telegram was greeted with applause in both houses Great pressure is being brought to bear in favor of the repeal of the laws, and memorials against it are being handed in from all parts of the State

MARYSVILLE, Feb 9 —To-day at 12 o'clock an armed [illegible] of the citizens of [where?] proceeded to the County jail and took out John Daily James Buckly and John McDowell, charged with the murder of W R Johnson in this city a week ago and hanged them on a gallows erected in front of the Armory Hall Buckly says that himself and Daily were guilty, but McDowell was innocent.

Daily stated that he had killed Johnson because Johnson had killed his (Daily's) partner and only regretted that he could not live long enough to kill all connected with Johnson

McDowell raved awfully called on God to witness that he was innocent and told the crowd that they were murdering an innocent man Daily and McDowell appeared to be drunk they staggered about on the platform, and had to be helped up when the time come

McDowell just before his arms were tied, bid good bye to all then secretly drew a Derringer and putting it to his breast pulled the trigger but the cap snapped and he lashed it down with a curse Buckley displayed great firmness. An immense crowd was here but the strictest order prevailed

TRYING THE LIFE PRESERVERS.—Perry A. Vicker, a prisoner from the Dalles, Saturday, under charge of Sheriff Ladd, took the benefit of a few minutes absence, of the guard, to attempt to effect an escape, by jumping overboard from the Idaho when within about two miles of the Cascades. He was ironed at the feet, but before making the desperate effort had placed one of the life preservers "so handy to have," about his person, and was making good time towards shore, when discovered. He was sent for by a small boat, and notwithstanding he was in the water, made a strong resistance. He left a note, and $10 accompanying it, requesting a relative to pay for the life-preserver. He is a desperate fellow, and has bid defiance to the officers since last December, when he escaped arrest for an assault to kill Wm. G. Wilkes of this county. Sheriff Olney first "nipped" him and now he has a room at Sheriff Ladd's "cross bar" hotel.

TELEGRAPHIC GREETING.—The Telegraph line is now completed from Portland to Eugene City, and was worked directly through yesterday. The following congratulations were exchanged:

EUGENE CITY, Feb. 14, 1864—2 P. M.
DAVID LOGAN, Mayor of the City of Portland: Portland and Eugene City are this day connected by telegraph. All arrangements and contracts complete. In behalf of the City Council and our fellow-citizens, I tender congratulations to you and your fellow-citizens upon this happy occasion.
JOSEPH A. GRAY,
President of the Council.

REPLY.
PORTLAND, Feb. 14, 1864.
To JOSEPH A. GRAY, President of Council: Portland rejoices in the completion of this new link of connection between them. The telegraph is but the pioneer of other improvements to unite the two cities closer in time and
D. LOGAN, Mayor.

With the exception of one hundred and fifteen miles, from Eugene City to Levins' Station, we now have direct telegraphic communication with Sacramento, and the East.

ARRIVAL OF THE SAMUEL MERRITT.—The bark Samuel Merritt left San Francisco on the 6th of January, was detained the same day on account of strong north west winds. Left again on the afternoon of the 28th; experienced light winds and calms the whole trip. Arrived off the Bar February 9th, with thick weather; was detained until the 12th. Left again on Saturday, in tow of the John H. and arrived here yesterday about 1 She brought two passengers, and the her manifest of freight:

pkgs, 1876 pkgs: Smith & Davis, 65; B. L. Well & Co, 929; Ankeny & Sons, 397; Capt Ainsworth, 2; S F Leonard, 156; Bros. 176; Knapp, Burrell & Co, diamond C. 1; J W Cook, 16; Stan Co, 14; H W Corbett, 3; J Rosen Coulson, 277; E J Northrop & Co, A B Richardson, 8; A Cahn & Co. 104; 14; C & F, 305; O S N Co, 16; E L & Co, 4; 4070 pkgs.

—Sheriff McGunnigan of Pacific ington Territory, arrived in this on the John H. Couch, having wife who murdered her husband wards) and her paramour, Frech, to Vancouver for safe keeping They were lodged in jail last will leave on the Vancouver this The woman is a full blooded of "Lo, the poor Indian," and a dark skinned specimen of the The prisoners are very composed."

FOR GRAND RONDE.—Several fami their wagons, horses, cows and stuff," spent the day in our city yes aiting transit, to-day by the O. S. steamer Julia, to the Cascades, and up the Columbia. One informed from Benton county, and that intending to settle in the Grand Our informant added that he had passed the same ,ond, then an emigrant a change has been worked trail since then.

—Saturday evening the boys aid der masheene" "lettin 'em reservoir on Washington street, unction of Third. The "suction" d into the river at the O. S. N. Co.'s nd the water was pumped from one to the other, through all four, as it to the reservoir. They had a lively ying to "flood" one another, but worked No. 1, however, couldn't stand ress," and with her long stroke got lly "washed." After the stroke was ed they worked her well.

WHAT'S IN A NAME.—Captain Thayer in us that the "Fair Play" was a myth, is no more"—the name of his reliable mer. But a new name has come scute, and it will not be again changed ing to Uncle Sam's documents when vessel is once registered "there 'll more foolin' about it." The Rescue is pretty name for Capt. Thayer's new "Long may she wave."

FROM ASTORIA.—The steamer John H. Capt. Holman, arrived from Astoria one o'clock yesterday. The steamer is reported to have crossed the Bar at Saturday morning. The Couch was d at Warrior Point for several hours, consequence of thick fog.

PLEASURE SEEKERS are diverting their atten in a new direction lately, and are receiv considerable profit in the way of indulging appetite for happiness, by taking a nday trip to Oregon City on the Senator.

SANITARY.—Mr. J. H. Mitchell will address people at Ames' Chapel a week from to morrow, (Tuesday, 23d,) at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, in behalf of the Sanitary cause.

RECORDER'S COURT.—A "case" was up before the Recorder Saturday, occasioned by the sobriety of a "subject," who was sent to for want of funds to pay his fine.

GETTING LIVELY.—Collector McCoy levied property belonging to several respectable als in the city, Saturday, to satisfy the dudes against them for city taxes.

THEATRICAL.—On Saturday evening at the Willamette Theatre an excellent melo-drama, called the "Foundling of the Forest," was well played by the company. Mrs. Haynes as the Heroine, was natural and perfect, her usual gracefulness and lady-like bearing gained for her loud plaudits from the audience. Miss Sallie B. Goodrich added another laurel to her wreath by her easy rendition of Geraldine. Mr. G. B. Waldron's impersonation of De Valmont indeed deserves great praise, corroborating fully that he is an actor of no small pretensions. Mrs. Haynes' Florian deserves our warmest praise, and Mr. Mortimer's Bertrand was good. Baron Longueville was enacted by Mr. Reeves, whose idea of the atrocious villain was such as deserves eulogy. Mr. S. Dennis amused the audience by his excellent rendition of L'Eclair. Sanguino and Lenoir, by Messrs. Dupree and Lindsay, was good. Monica, by Mrs. G. B. Waldron, was prettily rendered—the piece throughout is an exciting one, and attracts the auditor from beginning to end. The balance of the company sustained their parts with credit. A repetition of this play would no doubt fill the house. We must not forget to mention a word of praise for Mr. Lindsay's song of "The Old Sexton;" it was sung even better last night than ever. Mr. Lindsay has an excellent voice, and it is a pleasure to hear him sing. An excellent bill is offered for this evening, the thrilling drama of "The Creole" which was so favorably received by a large audience on its first representation, cannot fail to attract another house. The burlesque of "Mrs. Amora" written by Brougham is the afterpiece—it is an excellent hit upon the original tragedy, is full of fun, and is sufficient to send the audience home with light hearts, and pleasing smiles upon their faces. As this is the last night but seven of the Dramatic Season, at expiration of which the company go to the Dalles, those who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing the pleasing actress had better do so soon.

WE understand that Rev. Mr. Pearne has been invited by citizens of Belpassi, Albany, Freedom (Lane County,) and Eugene City, to address them on questions relating to the present crisis of the Nation. His appointments are: at Belpassi on the 22d; at Albany on the 23d; at Freedom on the 26th; and at Eugene on the 27th. At which times and places collections will probably be taken in aid of the Sanitary Commission.

BENEVOLENT BALL.—The Ball to be given this evening at Gymnasium Hall, promises to be well attended; quite a number of tickets have already been sold. The proceeds will be devoted to the purpose of purchasing a new instrument for the Catholic Church choir.

MOTHERS! MOTHERS!! MOTHERS!

A Soldier's Valentine.

I.

Dear love, I'm weary,
To-day our tramp
Was long and dreary;
To-night our camp
Is bright and cheery
With flaming lamp
Of crackling pitchwood;
And laugh and joke
Do fainting hearts good.
We sit and smoke,
Or by the fire brood
And restless poke
The brands together,
Till leaping high
The heavens thither
We prophecy
The morrow's weather,
And bye the bye
What day's to-morrow?
Valentine's. Fly
Hence, care and sorrow!
I'll go and try
If I can borrow,
Steal or buy
Pen, ink and paper,
Till by the light
Of pine-knot taper
I to thee write,
(A lover's caper),
This wintry night.

II.

Dear love, I'm weary,
To-day our tramp
Was long and dreary,
And yet our camp
To-night is cheery,
For by my lamp
I pen this token,
To let thee see
The vows we've spoken
Are kept by me—
And still unbroken
My trust in thee;
To send thee greeting
All thoughts of mine,
How for our meeting
I long and pine;
With love entreating
Still love of thine.
Thus, love, when weary
Of fight or tramp,
When heart grows dreary
Or ardor damp,
I can be cheery
In field or camp
If I remember
That love of thine;
June or December,
In rain or shine,
I breathe sweet amber
And drink sweet wine.
When round me surges
The din of strife,
When foeman charges
And death is rife,
I hear thy "success—
A charmed life!"
With love entreating
Still love of thine,
I send thee greeting
These thoughts of mine;
Until our meeting,
Thy Valentine.

Fort Dalles, Oregon. H. C.

Where she Found her Diamonds.

BY LIZZIE CAMPBELL.

Some six or eight weeks ago when Mr. Booth was playing Shylock one night to the delight of a large and enthusiastic audience, a scene was transpiring in one of the private boxes, of interest sufficient to draw occasional attention even from the merciless Jew. A woman of twenty-five, young, handsome and brilliant, accompanied by two gentlemen, were the sole occupants of the box. One of the gentlemen, seated to the right of the lady, appeared to be entirely absorbed in the development of the plot of the Merchant of Venice, as it passed before him on the stage.

This man was singularly prepossessing in appearance, without being absolutely handsome. His face was fine and dark; his eyes brown, shaded by short thick lashes. He wore no moustache, and the mouth thus entirely exposed, was firm, decided, handsome, and with the sweetest possible expression of winning frankness and good humor. The hair was dark, slightly curling, and worn carelessly thrown back from the face. He was dressed with taste and elegance, even remarkably so, but had nothing of the air of a coxcomb. He paid no attention more than courtesy demanded to his fair companion, who watched him keenly, and allowed no opportunity of attracting his attention to pass unheeded. As the curtain fell on the second act, she addressed him:

"You think Booth handsome, of course, Mr. Oswald?"

"Mr. Booth is a handsome man; his eyes are splendid, also, he is a fine actor, appreciative and artistic."

At this reply Mr. Oswald spoke as if in answer to his own thought, and not as addressing it to his interrogator.

She saw this, and bit her lips with vexation, impatiently rapping her unoffending little hand over the knuckles with her flashing fan.

"You don't agree with me, Miss Holland?" asked Oswald, looking at her.

"Of course I agree with you; I always agree with you in everything," she turned from him with a smothered sigh that was almost a moan, and met the eyes of the third party in the box glaring at her. Blue eyes they were, glaring now with a baleful green light—so they had watched her and Oswald all that evening; so they meant to watch her forever, unless some wildly looked for change came that the maddened, jealous lover scarcely dared to hope for.

Mary Holland shuddered when she met that look. How she would have got out of it, whether she would have turned from him, hurt and indignant, I don't know, but on the instant the curtain was rung up, and for the time the Jew became the centre of all interest. The night waned.

Shylock demanded his pound of flesh—"I stand here upon my bond—I claim the law—shall I have it?" he said.

Just then Miss Holland's neglected lover stooped and picked up her bracelet. It was a magnificent diamond ornament, set in splendid gold. It had fallen from her right arm, and lay almost at Mr. Oswald's foot.

"Here is your bracelet, Mary, it dropped from your arm," and young Rowe tendered it toward her. He had known her a long time, had called her Mary for years, and loved her more madly every time he spoke the name.

"Thank you, Henry," and she jerked the bracelet rudely from him. Clasping it carelessly on her arm, she thought with fiercely wounded pride:

"Always that boy—always him! Why could not he have seen it? It fell at his feet—but it was mine—he saw it not—would not see me, if I, too, fell there, where God knows my heart has lain long enough."

The Jew was gone, the pitiless heart of that picture of revenge and avarice was crushed to the earth, and the curtain had fallen on the broken down old man. The theatre emptied rapidly; Miss Holland, accompanied on either side by her cavaliers, issued forth with the rest. Mr. Oswald left them at the door of the theatre, and the proud, wounded beauty took her lover's arm with unconcealed reluctance and sullenness.

They proceeded for some distance in silence. Presently they were in the Avenue and near her splendid home.

Henry Rowe broke the silence.

"Are you angry with me, Mary?"

"Angry with you—for what?"

"I don't know, but you treat me cruelly. I can't stand it; you are killing me!"

"What can you possibly mean?"

"Oh, don't add hypocrisy to the rest! You understand me but too well. Yes," he added with sudden vehemence, "ever since you have known that scoundrel Oswald ——"

"Silence, if you please!"

"I repeat it, he is a scoundrel and a knave, and you will live to learn it—yes, your cheek will yet burn with shame that ever you were disgraced by an acquaintance with him. Gambler, blackleg ——"

"How dare you sir! Mr. Oswald is my friend, I would have you remember, and far beyond the attacks of jealous malice, thank Heaven!"

"Your friend! Ay, you love him—well," he ground his teeth with rage. "A little patience—time, a little time, may draw the veil from before your eyes, I trust."

Miss Holland deigned no reply, and presently they paused before her home.

"Good-night, and thank you," she said coldly.

"Don't leave me in anger, Mary; good-night."

He held out his hand, and after a moment she placed hers in it.

As he did so, she clutched at her wrist with a sudden exclamation:

"My bracelet—my bracelet! What have I done with it? Oh, it is lost!"

It was indeed. No gleaming diamond shone on that fair arm.

"And my watch! What shall I do—papa's gift, set with diamonds. It cost a thousand dollars; how shall I tell him—what shall I do? I have been robbed. I couldn't have lost the watch, it is broken from the chain! Go, Henry, I beg, leave advertisements with each of the morning papers, offer any reward—half their value. Oh, this is too bad! too bad!"

"I will go instantly, good bye! Say nothing about the loss; I can't despair of recovering them," and leaving her in tears (who wouldn't weep for the loss of $1,500 worth of diamonds?) Henry Rowe hurried to execute her commands.

And it must be confessed he was glad of the mission on which he was bound, for a sudden, blinding light, as if shed from the diamonds themselves, had flashed upon him.

"Yes, she leaned on my right arm all the way from the theatre—from the box, even; and in the crowd at the door she took his arm with her right hand."

That wicked Harry! how he chuckled over the recollection.

Now the curious reader may desire to know why Mr. Harry Rowe had so extraordinary an opinion of a gentleman who enjoyed the friendship of a lady of such high social position as Miss Holland.

A few words will explain that circumstance satisfactorily.

Mr. Oswald, through the medium of a gentlemanly appearance, fine manners and considerable show of wealth, had obtained the entree to the best male society the city affords—add to that the fact of his having saved Miss Holland from being killed between two stages that had run against each other on Broadway, while she was crossing the thoro'fare, and it is easy to see how he deserved her thanks, how grateful her father was, and how he gradually became a visitor at her house. Notwithstanding all this, Harry, the jealous, was suspicious of him; began to hear strange anecdotes of him at the club, and finally determined to unveil his real character.

And now to proceed in our story.

Instead of going in the direction of any newspaper office, Harry went toward the Bowery, and after walking some little distance turned down one of the many dark streets leading out of it. He had not walked far before the search he was evidently pursuing reached a most interesting point. On the opposite side he was suddenly attracted by a certain very elegant figure, a man of more than usual natural and artistic grace, and as the identity of this man became quite clear to Harry he struck his hands together with delight, and almost emitted a little shout of triumph; but he controlled himself, and rapidly and quietly pursued this man.

So the two walked, Mr. Oswald unconcious that Harry was fast on his heels, for about half an hour. At the end of that time Mr. Oswald stopped before a little, low, dingy shop; the shutters of the windows were closed, but a dim light was visible through the upper half of the door, which was of glass, with an old chintz curtain drawn across it. Mr. Oswald tried the door and found it locked. He gave the low, peculiar whistle of his class, and it almost instantly opened from within, and an old Jew, shrivelled, grizzled, and bent almost double, clattered forth:

"Misder Oswalt, welcome—welcome!"

Mr. Oswald instantly accepted the welcome by entering and closing the door after him. Harry, standing concealed in shadow, had heard and seen all that had passed. Approaching the door noiselessly, he discovered to his almost uncontrollable joy a break in one of the panes of glass, through which he contrived to push away the chintz, and so discovered clearly all that was taking place within.

The glittering bracelet and the jeweled watch already lay on the Jew's counter.

"I'm pressed for money, old Pinchback, or tortures wouldn't make me part with these jewels. They were my dear mother's. However, I dare not think of that—it unmans me. Name the sum you'll give for them and let me go before I lose the courage to sell them."

The Jew eyed the glittering stones greedily, then shaking his head slowly made an offer of four hundred dollars.

"Out, you old heathen! I have heard my dearest mother say they cost four times—five times the sum."

"Diamonds are scheap now."

"Oh, are they indeed! Well, old fox, say five hundred and the precious mementoes are yours."

After considerable haggling, Mr. Oswald carried his point. The old Jew paid out the money in greenback tens and twenties, then stretched out his hand for the diamonds. Another hand reached them first and clutched them tightly. The Jew glared, Oswald became deathly white and fell against the counter.

"Absorbed in conversation, you did not hear my entrance," Harry remarked, with a cold, quiet smile, as he secured the diamonds about him. "Thank my friendship for Miss Holland only, not my forbearance toward you, Mr. Oswald, that I don't assist you to the benefit of a few years' penal labor. Good-night."

"Oh, father Israel! my diamonds! my monish, my monish, my diamonds!" the Jew shrieked wildly after Harry, who only answered with a triumphant laugh.

The old Jew seized Mr. Oswald by the throat, and half strangling him demanded his "monish." With an inarticulate curse Mr. Oswald dropped the bills he held clutched in his right hand, and then fighting the Jew from him he left the place and was out in the street at a bound, where he cooled himself by a series of curses both loud and deep, and at last disconsolately betook himself to one of the low gambling saloons in the vicinity.

* * * * *

"You will forgive me Mary, if I pain you by telling you the whole truth of this matter. Believe me I would not name the thief if I did not consider I owed it as a duty towards you."

"Harry Rowe—what? No—you don't mean—it's impossible—," and Miss Holland was very pale.

"It's true—for your sake I'm almost sorry now; but your friend Mr. Oswald was the thief."

His hearer's face, neck, shoulders were dyed with crimson, and hiding her face in her hands she burst into a violent fit of weeping.

"Oh! forgive me, Mary—dearest, dearest Mary!" and Harry was kneeling at her feet, drawing her little white hands from the flushed and tear-wet face.

"Rather forgive me, Harry. Oh, what a fool I have been!"

Having become fully convinced of this fact, it was no very difficult task to persuade Miss Mary to be a wise woman; and, as a proof thereof, to bestow on her faithful lover the little hand he had been sedulously caressing for the last half hour.

CURES SECRET DISEASES,

In all their Stages;	At Little Expense;
Little or no Change in Diet;	No Inconvenience,

AND NO EXPOSURE.

It causes a frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby Removing Obstructions, preventing and curing Strictures of the Urethra, allaying Pain and Inflammation, so frequent in the class of Diseases, and expelling all Poisonous, diseased and worn out matter.

THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS

Who have been the victims of Quacks

and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the "POISON" has, by the use of "Powerful Astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after marriage.

Use Helmbold's Extract Buchu

For all Affections and Diseases of the URINARY ORGANS, whether existing in MALE OR FEMALE, from whatever cause originating, and

NO MATTER OF HOW LONG STANDING.

Diseases of these Organs require the aid of a Diuretic,

INDUCED by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters, (purely vegetable,) hosts of ignorant Quacks and unscrupulous adventurers have opened upon suffering humanity the flood-gates of Nostrums in the shape of poor Whiskey, vilely compounded with injurious drugs and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of Alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles and big bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of Bitters; which instead of curing, only aggravate disease, and leave the disappointed sufferer in despair.

Hoofland's German Bitters!

Are not a new and untried article, but have stood the test of fifteen years trial by the American public; and their reputation and sale are not rivalled by any similar preparation.

The proprietors have thousands of Letters from the most eminent

CLERGYMEN,
LAWYERS,
PHYSICIANS,
and

Testifying of their own personal knowledge, to the beneficial effects and medical virtues of these Bitters.

Do you want something to strengthen you?
Do you want a good appetite?
Do you want to build up your constitution?
Do you want to feel well?
Do you want to get rid of nervousness?
Do you want energy?
Do you want to sleep well?
Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling?

If so, use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

From Rev. J. Newton Brown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects; I yet know of no sufficient reasons why a man may not testify to the benefits he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend, Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23, 1861. J. NEWTON BROWN.

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There are many preparations sold under the name of Bitters, put up in quart bottles, compounded of the cheapest whisky or common rum, costing from 20 to 40 cents per gallon, the taste disguised by Anise or Coriander Seed.

This class of Bitters has caused and will continue to cause, as long as they can be sold, hundreds to die the death of the drunkard. By their use the system is kept continually under the influence of Alcoholic Stimulants of the worst kind, the desire for Liquor is created and kept up, and the result is all the horrors attendant upon a drunkard's life and death.

For those who desire and WILL HAVE a Liquor Bitters, we publish the following receipt: Get One Bottle Hoofland's German Bitters and mix with Three Quarts of Good Brandy or Whisky, and the result will be a preparation that will far excel in medicinal virtues and true excellence any of the numerous Liquor Bitters in the market, and will cost much less. You will have all the virtues of Hoofland's Bitters in connection with a good article of Liquor, at a much less price than these inferior preparations will cost you.

ATTENTION SOLDIERS!

AND THE FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS.

We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that "HOOFLAND'S German Bitters" will cure nine-tenths of the diseases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life. In the lists, published almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters. Diseases resulting from disorders of the digestive organs are speedily removed. We have no hesitation in stating that, if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers, hundreds of lives might be saved that otherwise would be lost.

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well authenticated cure of one of the nation's heroes, whose life, to use his own language, "has been saved by the Bitters:"

PHILADELPHIA, August 23d, 1862.

Messrs. Jones & Evans—Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Sherman's celebrated battery, and under the immediate command of Captain R. B. Ayres. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in November last with inflammation of the lungs, and was for seventy-two days in the hospital. This was followed by great debility, heightened by an attack of dysentery. I was then removed from the White House, and sent to this city on board the steamer "State of Maine," from which I landed on the 28th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as one could be and still retain a spark of vitality. For a week or more I was scarcely able to swallow anything, and if I did force a morsel down, it was immediately thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach. Life could not last under these circumstances; and, accordingly, the physicians who had been working faithfully, though unsuccessfully, to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archer, frankly told me they could do no more for me, and advised me to see a clergyman, and to make such disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital, Mr. Frederick Steinbron, of Sixth below Arch Street, advised me, as a forlorn hope, to try your Bitters, and kindly procured a bottle. From the time I commenced taking them the gloomy shadow of death receded, and I am now, thank God for it, getting better. Though I have taken but two bottles, I have gained ten pounds, and I feel sanguine of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter, from whom I have heard nothing for eighteen months; for, gentlemen, I am a loyal Virginian, from the vicinity of Front Royal. To your invaluable Bitters I owe the certainty of life which has taken the place of vague fears—to your Bitters will I owe the glorious privilege of again clasping to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life.

Very truly yours,
ISAAC MALONE.

We fully concur in the truth of the above statement, as we had despaired of seeing our comrade, Mr. Malone, restored to life.
